

Marion's Best Clothing Store.

We've gobbled up a great many good things that will give an added flavor to your Thanksgiving dressing.

An attractive overcoat will help a heap.

We're showing some very "new" styles—very distinct in pattern.

To say they're "beauties" would be putting it mildly.

You can't buy anything either in suits or overcoats at this store that is not right in fabric, right in workmanship, right in price.

The present showing of overcoats is the best in the history of this store—and the saving more pronounced than ever.

More and more men learn this every day—and get the benefit.

Overcoats $15 to $30.

DUNBAR DIVORCE CASE ON TODAY

Court Hears Evidence and Takes Matter Under Advisement.

MRS. SCHABER GIVEN DIVORCE

Husband is Found to Have Treated Her Brutally.

Treasurer Dombach Asks That Seven Injunctions Restraining Him From Collecting Alken Tax Be Dissolved—Divorce Sequel to an Elopement is Being Heard.

The divorce case of Ella Dunbar against John Dunbar attracted considerable attention and was bitterly contested in the common pleas court today, about fifteen witnesses having been subpoenaed on both sides. Mrs. Dunbar charges her husband with cruelty and brutal treatment and seeks a divorce and alimony. Dunbar is a west end barber who has many friends and the case is proving quite interesting.

The wife testified to brutal treatment and her testimony was corroborated by several witnesses. Dunbar has some property and the fight is being made largely on the matter of alimony. Mouser & Maloney represent Mrs. Dunbar, and Fred W. Warner, the defendant.

The divorce case of Henry Elias Sabback against Agnes Elias Sabback was tried to Judge Scofield this afternoon. The divorce is the sequel to an elopement to Newport, Kentucky, several years ago and there is now a son, three years of age, possession of whom the divorce is sought by both parties. The child is now with Mrs. Sabback's mother, a Mrs. Weeks, near Richmond.

Sabback is a Greek confectioner, on West Center street, and is an uncommonly brilliant young fellow. Some time ago he was ordered to pay his wife $50 alimony and this morning it appeared that this had never been paid. Judge Scofield refused to hear the case until the money was paid and Sabback scurried around and paid it within an hour.

The wife is charged with gross neglect of duty and desertion, while she charges the same thing against the husband in her answer and cross petition. Mouser & Maloney represent the plaintiff and L. E. Myers, the defendant in this action.

Judge Scofield held a divorce session of the common pleas court today. Stella Schaber was granted a divorce from Jacob Schaber and restored to her former name of Stella Young. Mrs. Schaber charged her husband with cruelty. Her petition related that her husband had succeeded in securing about $2,500 of her money and investing it in a farm in Michigan, where he took the plaintiff to live. It was charged he had treated her most cruelly and as the defendant was not present to fight the case, a divorce was granted at once.

Attorneys C. H. Conley and C. L. Justice represented Mrs. Schaber.

County Treasurer Dombach, this afternoon filed answer through Prosecuting Attorney Justice, to the petitions of Michael Burke, J. T. O'Keefe, Ivy B. Smith, Melvin Jones, Alfred Korte, Herman Kalkbrenner and Charles Miller, all of whom have been placed on the tax duplicate for the collection of the Dow-Alken liquor tax.

The plaintiffs have been placed on the duplicate by the county auditor upon instructions from the state auditor and the tax certified by the treasurer for collection. In each case a temporary injunction was secured restraining the collection of the tax.

The treasurer denies practically all of the allegations contained in the petitions of the plaintiffs and asks that the injunctions be dissolved and the petitions be dismissed so that he may proceed with the collection of the tax.

OPERATOR ROUSES TOWN DURING BANK ROBBERY

Houston, Texas, Nov. 25.—Although gagged and bound upright in his chair, with his hands behind him, and looking down the muzzle of a couple of 45's, W. L. Good, a phone operator of Farmers' Ranch, Texas, kicked a switch on the bottom of the board, which rang every phone in the village, nipping in the bud a daring bank robbery. The robbers rode in town at midnight, two of them going to the phone exchange, taking possession of the board, while the others entered the bank. Good was "covered" and told to keep his hands off the board. To make sure he would not give the alarm he was gagged and bound, but allowed to remain in his chair. Though silent as the tomb Good edged his foot to a switch, slowly pressed it on, setting ringing every telephone in the town.

This aroused the sleeping village and frightened the robbers who fled before the townpeople, exchanging shots as they ran. The secured about $1,500 and left $50,000 in their haste.

Barber Shop Moves.
The barber shop conducted by Roy Tavenner, in the Hotel Kumfort building has been moved one door south. The room vacated by the barber shop to be fitted up for the use of O'Keefe Bros. cafe. The barber shop is now located just off the hotel lobby.

The Provincial Government of Vancouver has built a 75-mile road at a cost of $200,000 from Victoria to Alberni.

HETTY GREEN IS BECOMING MORE AMUSING DAILY

Lives a Simple Life But She Sure Does Know How to go Some.

ADmits IT, MUST BE TRUE

Tells How She Borrowed Gold Plate—Held Mortgage on Jewelers.

When She Wants to Dress She Can Beat 'em all—Doesn't Care Much For Parties Now But Was a Time When She Went to at Least Nine per Week.

New York, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Hetty Green spent a good part of her seventy-seventh birthday yesterday in hard work at her office at No. 111 Broadway. Incidentally she explained where the gold plate came from which helped make her banquet at the Astor in honor of her daughter a notable event. It was borrowed from jewelers whose mortgages she held.

"I'm pretty good on color, eh?" she remarked, as she settled herself on a bench in the outer office to chat with a reporter for The World. "I can't say I feel just splendid, because I'm tired. I've been lifting some heavy books and I've worked with my usual energy, even if it was my birthday, and I'm ready to go home. I'm thankful to feel as well as I do. They tell me my birthday is four days ahead of Carnegie's. So I beat him there, don't I?" she chuckled.

"Aren't you going to have a party or a candle cake or anything like that?" asked the reporter.

"Now, my dear, there are times for parties and times for no parties. I've outgrown them. There was a time when I went to nine in a week. Oh! you couldn't keep me away from a party, not with wild horses, even. But tonight I'm going to bed. That'll be enough party for me."

"Tell you what I did do, though, on my birthday. I gave away presents to people to celebrate. Yes, indeed. Why, before I left the house this morning, I gave away five checks to neighbors and people I liked. Birthday presents are for others, not the 'birthday child.'"

"We should give to others on our birthday in order to make them glad we're alive."

"But did no one give you anything?"

"Oh, my! yes," smiled Mrs. Green. "I guess I got about twenty-five gifts, little things, you know, because people know I refuse to accept valuable presents. They sent me flowers and candy and jellies and things like that."

Her Idea the Simple Life.

"What have you done to have reached your age in such health and vigor?" was asked.

"Well, I'm a Quaker, you know, and we preach peace and good-will to people. Then, I live very simply, keep regular hours and never eat what isn't wholesome. Just because I've a fortune is no reason why I should send down South, for instance, for delicacies not in season here. I like to eat the best that God puts on the market, in His own time."

"You see, I never squander money. When I want to I can spend it as well as the next one. Why, my daughter had obligations a few years ago and I gave a fine banquet at the Astor. Everybody said it was wonderful. I held some mortgages on jewelers here, and they lent me gold plate for the banquet."

"And I never dress in the height of fashion, because we Quakers believe that it's the soul that counts and not what you put upon the body. But let me tell you one thing," added Mrs. Green, speaking slowly and with emphasis: "when I want to dress, I can beat 'em all. Why, at my daughter's wedding I had Irish lace on my coat that was superb. Lady Aberdeen wanted a simple."

Mrs. Green went on to say that she gave more in charity than was known, but preferred to do it quietly because to make public her good deeds was distasteful to her. She was asked to break her rule, simply because it was her birthday, and told of some one charitable act she had done in the year.

"Well, I'll tell, but I won't mention any names. You see, I never like to give to one person. I like to give to all."

ECZEMA

Also Called Tetter, Salt Rheum, Pruritus, Milk-Crust, Weeping Skin, Etc.

ECZEMA CAN BE CURED TO STAY, and when I say cured, I mean just what I say—CURED TO STAY, and not merely patched up for awhile, to return before long. I have cured many cases of this disease in the past, and I make this broad statement after putting ten years of my time on this one disease and handling in the meantime a quarter of a million cases of this dreadful disease. Now, I do not care what you have used, nor how many doctors have told you that you could not be cured—all I ask is just a chance to show you that I know what I am talking about. If you will write TODAY, I will send you a FREE TRIAL of my mild, soothing, guaranteed cure that will convince you more in a day than I or anyone else could in a month's time. If you are disgusted and discouraged, I dare you to give me a chance to prove my claims. By writing me today you will enjoy more real comfort than you could find anywhere. I dare you to try it and you will see I am telling you the truth.

awake nights, sometimes, thinking of how with one act I can benefit three or four. And so in this last year, among other gifts, I made one to a school for boys and girls of the intermediate age, in which I helped them with between $300,000 and $400,000. The school is in this state.

Got Land and Buildings Cheap.

"I bought the land during the panic of 1907, and because nobody was buying at that time it cost one-third of what I would have had to pay at another time. The buildings were put up then, when there were 150,000 men out of employment. A number of these were employed in that way, not on full pay, of course, but anything was a help. Now the school is going nicely and boys and girls are being taught practical things."

"So you see the good deed was beneficial to many. The institution benefited by saving money on building material; all these men out of employment were helped, and the school is an established thing."

Mrs. Green had on her arm a black bag, to which she pointed with affectionate pride. It was of silk and had been given to her by her son, Col. E. H. R. Green, that morning when she came to the office.

"He's a great help to me, that boy," she remarked tenderly. "I don't know what I would do without him in both home and business."

Mrs. Green rose early yesterday morning and breakfasted heartily on a piece of tenderloin steak, toast, oatmeal and cream, and a glass of milk. Then she walked over to Madison avenue through Eighty-fourth street and boarded a south-bound car. At Astor place and Broadway she boarded a Broadway car and rode as far as St. Paul's church, whence she walked to the National Park Bank. From there she went to her office.

"Doesn't Hetty Green want to give a birthday message on her seventy-seventh birthday?" asked the reporter.

"Well, it's like this," she replied after a moment's deliberation. "Let everybody build a monument—not here, but with God in Heaven. Some time ago some folks wanted me to donate for a building or something in Chicago, and when I refused said, 'Yes, but think what a monument it will be to you!'"

"That isn't the right kind. Let's all build a monument of good deeds here on earth, and we'll find some day that they've all winged up to Heaven and are there to our credit."

Gumpers to be Re-elected.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 25.—The reelection of President Gumpers, Vice President Mitchell and Secretary Morrison by the American Federation of Labor, in annual convention, was predicted today when the final session opened. There was so much work in prospect that the leaders doubted if adjournment could be taken before midnight. The fight for next year's convention centered between Rochester, New York, and Richmond, Virginia.

Congressman W. B. Wilson, of Blossburg, Pennsylvania, delegate, announced today that he would not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of Pennsylvania. He said there was too much labor work for him in congress.

Replevin Suit Fails.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 25.—The replevin suit of the International Association of Bridge & Structural Iron workers to obtain possession of books and documents, now in the custody of the federal authorities here as evidence in the McNamara dynamiting cases, was thrown out of the Indiana courts today by Judge Remond.

The court held that the officials of the iron workers in asking for the documents, had failed to state that they were acting as representatives of the iron workers and not as individuals. The state's demurrer to the suit was then upheld.

MANY FATALITIES.

Liverpool, Nov. 25.—After an all night search of the ruins of the great oil cake mills of J. Bibby & sons, which exploded and burned yesterday, the police announced this morning that the total number of known dead was twenty-five. The bodies were terribly mutilated. It is feared that there are more bodies under the debris and the search continues today.

CARNEGIE NOW ENGAGED IN

Distributing His Money and He is Very Busy—Wants No More.

He is Celebrating His Seventy Fourth Birthday Today.

New York, Nov. 25.—Hale and hearty cheeks glowing, and blue eyes, sparkling, Andrew Carnegie is today celebrating his seventy-fourth birthday. Last night the grizzled old ironmaster told stories about himself before the members of young John D. Rockefeller's bible class at the Fifth Avenue Baptist church. He was in fine humor and set his auditors laughing when he told them about his love of Shakespeare. It was when he was a messenger boy that he neglected the business of his employer to attend a Shakespearean performance. He started to learn quotations from the bard, especially those "which permitted me to use the word hell at the top of my voice."

He admitted that Shakespeare often used pretty strong language for even messenger boys, but he gave much credit to the immortal poet "for my success in life."

Carnegie said he was determined to pass his remaining years in distributing his wealth. He said he did not expect to accumulate any more. "I will never lay another dollar of stock," he said. "I am now spending my time with men who are trying to elevate the condition of mankind. So my life has become very precious to me and I am enjoying myself greatly."

Carnegie said boys born millionaires are unfortunately because so many temptations are put in their way. Also all started poor boys. He said smoking and drinking were just foolishness. He finally decided to give his $10 per month as his first $5 he they ran. They secured about $1,500. He didn't know what to do with the surplus. He finally decided to give his mother $11.25 and save the rest. He advised the boys of the bible class to be "keen in your dreams."

Dr. A. Rhu Injured.

While engaged in the game of volleyball in the Y. M. C. A. gym yesterday afternoon, Dr. A. Rhu tore a muscle in his left leg below the knee. As a result of the injury, the doctor will be confined to his home on Bellefontaine avenue for a few days.

SHANK'S HORSE STILL AT IT

Mayor of Indianapolis Still Moving Against High Prices For Necessities.

Shipping in Milk-fed and Corn-fed Chickens and Turkeys.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 25.—The Shank milk-fed chicken—and turkey—arrived here today and were introduced to the Indianapolis public.

Relentless in his war on the high cost of living, the Indianapolis executive today followed up his success in selling potatoes at cost by placing on sale in the city market 150 milk-fed chickens, 150 corn-fed chickens, and 150 "just common chickens." Then there were seventy-five turkeys for Indianapolis house wives. The chickens were all dressed while the turkeys were placed on sale alive.

"My prices," said the mayor, in reply to the United Press, when asked what he would sell the poultry for, "why, they are so low that they will make every retailer and some of the wholesalers sit up and take notice. I am selling my turkeys for eighteen cents a pound as compared with a prevailing retail price of from twenty to twenty-four cents. My chickens are being sold at from fourteen to nineteen cents a pound, depending on their weight and whether are milk-fed or corn-fed. Retailers are charging from twenty to twenty-five cents a pound. "I want Indianapolis to have some real chicken for once," continued the mayor. "I had one for breakfast and say—I never tasted any like it before."

The sale of poultry is Mayor Shank's Thanksgiving message to Indianapolis. If the sale today proves successful, he asserts that more birds would be obtained straight from the country and sold at cost.

JEKYL AND HYDE FOUND GUILTY

Betram G. Spencer, Noted Degenerate Convicted of First Degree Murder.

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 25.—After having been out for more than five years, a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree was returned at 3:10 this morning by the jury in the case of Betram G. Spencer, the Jekyll-Hyde character, who shot and killed Miss Martha B. Blackstone while robbing the New home on the night of March 31, 1910.

So intense was the interest in the trial that when the jury came in at 2:08, the court-room was well filled. As the jury filed past his cage, Spencer did not raise his eyes or change his position.

When the verdict was announced a high fell over the court as all expected a new outburst from Spencer. The prisoner, however, seemed not to realize what had happened. He only blinked and scratched his head nervously. Court was adjourned and when the news of the conviction was broken to Spencer's wife, she collapsed and had to be carried from the courthouse.

Bigelew's Ninety-fourth Birthday.
New York, Nov. 25.—John Bigelow, famous statesman and author, is today celebrating his 94th birthday. Thousands of friends in all parts of the country have sent their congratulations. The veteran author recently has been in poor health.

Andrew Carnegie, who is 74 years old today, was one of the last visitors at Bigelow's home, to extend congratulations. The ironmaster also received thousands of messages of congratulation during the day.
